Interpretation Expertise

Morningside's Legal interpreters are rigorously tested and vetted according to our strict quality assurance processes. That's why every AmLaw 200 law firm and much of the Fortune 500 count on Morningside for their legal language needs.

Morningside understands the importance of security and confidentiality in the legal industry and deems all disclosed data, ideas and all sources of oral and written information to be strictly confidential. We are cognizant of the fact that the protection of privileged documents and proprietary information requires legally binding non-disclosure agreements and secure premises, servers and networks. That's why Morningside has invested significant human and financial resources to create a comprehensive Information Security Management System (ISMS) which is certified to ISO 27001:2013.

In addition to testing and training, we require excellent interpersonal and communication skills. Finally, all of our professional interpreters are accredited by organizations including:

- National Association of Judiciary Interpreters and Translators
- American Translators Association
- California Court Interpreters Association
- Institute of Translation and Interpreting
